

THE VECINO GROUP
Housing for the greater good.

Stacy Jurado-Miller

CHIEF MISSION OFFICER/OWNER

ABOUT

Stacy is the Chief Mission Officer at the Vecino Group. As co-founder, Stacy believed from the beginning that development was a path to building a better world. Responsible for establishing the mission, gut check, culture and ethos of the Vecino Group, Stacy now works to ensure those core values are evident in every aspect of the business. When she's not working on building the heart of the company, Stacy is proud to work on building permanent supportive housing developments for homeless veterans, youth aging out of foster care, domestic violence survivors, and other special needs groups.

EXPERIENCE

2011–PRESENT Chief Mission Officer/Owner

THE VECINO GROUP

Responsible for fostering the core values of the company. Encourages positive culture and promotes work-life balance. Implements the company mission throughout every project. Established company gut check: Development for the greater good.

2011–PRESENT Developer/Owner

THE VECINO GROUP

Works with a team to develop multiple affordable/supportive housing and community development projects. Responsible for identifying needs, structuring individual developments, forming partnerships with established service providers, communication, and saving the world, one home at a time.

2003–2011 Freelance Writer

Wrote for various national publications and companies including Newsweek, Fitness Magazine, Tyson, Seattle's Best Coffee and others.

SKILLS

- > Copywriting
- > Leader/Educator
- > Community Voice
- > Accomplished Presenter
- > Marketing/PR
- > Positive Attitude

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

- 136 units of supportive/special needs housing created
- 5 non-profit collaborations
- 2 historic rehabs

EDUCATION

Bachelor of Arts in English Language & Literature

UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, RENO